Every year at Annual Conference, the laity and clergy have an opportunity to reestablish connections. For many, the Christian journey began years ago in a different context as we were surrounded by a unique group of witnesses. Our call was fresh and our future was uncertain, but we gained comfort in knowing that we were not alone in the process of giving our life to Christ. This year in Norfolk, I stood for one of my colleagues who was being ordained. As the Bishop prayed the historical words of ordination, I witnessed the power of the Holy Spirit moving in the solemnity of the moment. There was silence, smiles, and tears. More than 3000 people were in attendance and yet each of us was alone with God. Families watched with pride as God warmed their heart and touched their loved ones. Clergy imagined their own ordination experiences and were touched once more by the same God that called them into ministry years before. Those who were preparing for the ministry paid close attention to get a glimpse of what might be in store for them in the future. The rest of the folks sat silently and reverently and in wonder.

Perhaps, even then, God was tugging at the hearts of future church leaders. Perhaps the only encouragement they needed to answer the call was an invitation. The Bishop seized the moment and gave the invitation and they came just as they were - young and old, black and white, male and female, rich and poor. God can and will use them all.

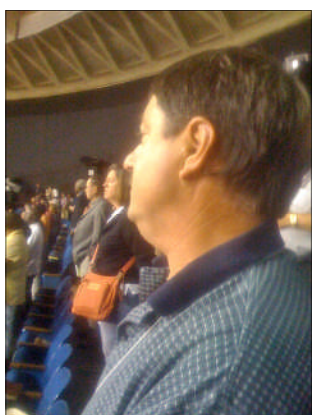

As Kenny and I drove back to Winchester, we were talking of the events of the week. I am proud of our denomination and the mighty acts that God is doing among us. As I think of you, I am equally as proud. I know that God has a plan for Round Hill Church and for each of you individually as well. Many of you have answered the call of Christ in your life as you are serving your church well. Still others, I believe, are sitting on the fence wondering how God will use you. If you have felt the tug of God upon your heart and would like to explore what it might mean for you or for your church, I invite you to dialogue with me. Pray that God will lift up leaders among us for the sake of the Gospel and our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Be good to yourself,

Pastor Jay

BOXES NEEDED FOR VBS CRAFTS

If you have the cardboard boxes that come on the bottom of cases of soda and water, please don't discard them. Vanessa Culp can use them to help with the craft projects during Vacation Bible School. A collection container will be placed in the Vestibule.

RHUMC HABERDASHERY STORE IS OPEN

The Witness Committee wants the people of Round Hill to show their church spirit and is offering a way to do just that. Hanging on a rack in the Fellowship Hall, you might have noticed some attractive pullovers and button up shirts, caps and totes that are adorned with the church name and UMC cross and flame. These items are available for purchase or can be ordered in different sizes. Information and order forms are available in the notebook on the bottom of the rack or contact:
